A letter received from the Emperor of France by the Corps Legislatif, after detailing the efforts to prevent a conflict between Prussia and Austria, of territorial aggrandisement so long as the present European equilibrium remains undisturbed. France could only think of extending her frontiers in the event of the map of Europe being altered to benefit the great powers. We should have desired for the German Confederation a position more worthy its importance; for Prussia, better geographical boundaries; for Austria, the maintenance of her great position in Europe after the cession of Venetia; and for Italy, the exchange of territorial compensation. The Conference has failed. Will France be led to draw the sword? The French Government thinks not.
